

Ágoston Nagy / CV

Budapest / Hungary / 1981 / stc.github.io / stc@binaura.net

Agoston Nagy specializes in algorithmic art, creating code-based artistic visualizations, physical installations, and real-time sonification using code. In addition to his artistic endeavors, he conducts research exploring decentralized communities, nonhuman intelligence, autonomy, resilience and the liminal web. Having conducted international workshops in computational art, systems thinking, and creative coding practices across the EU, US, Canada, and Asia, Nagy has shared his expertise on a global scale. Formerly a researcher at Kitchen Budapest Media Lab and a lecturer at Moholy-Nagy University of Art and Design in Budapest, his works have been showcased at prestigious institutions such as the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, the Centre for Media Art Karlsruhe (ZKM), EXPANDED.ART Gallery Berlin, Ludwig Museum Budapest among others.
